SLEEPING HOBO RUDELY WAKENED

Wiggled His Knee at an Inopportune Moment and Was Mistaken by Hunter for a Rabbit

Last Friday afternoon, Carl Ohman, a foreman at the acetone factory at East Smethport, while hunting rabbits along the Pennsylvania right of way in the vicinity of the fair grounds saw a movement in the weeds near the railroad track which he thought was caused by a rabbit and fired a charge of shot in that direction. The result was a wild yell far beyond the power of any bunny and Mr. Ohman was horrified to discover that he had shot a man.

The victim, who said his name was John Ferguson of Bradford, was taken at once to Mr. Ohman's home where his wounds were attended to and Dr. Burg Chadwick summoned. The doctor found that most of the charge had struck the man in the leg, but scattering pellets had hit him in the nose, ears and upon other portions of his anatomy. It was plainly evident that Ferguson was a tramp of the professional variety who had laid down beside the railroad track for a snooze. He was kept at Mr. Ohman's home until Saturday afternoon when Constable C. B. Dickinson took him to the neighborhood of the county home only to have the man flatly refuse to enter the establishment.

As the man could not be allowed to remain in the open he was placed in the lockup and Sunday sentenced to jail for five days on a vagrancy charge made before Burgess Warley Gifford. Under the name of Davis this same tramp was sentenced May 17 1917 to the workhouse at Allegheny for 60 days, under the tramp act of this state. He was suspected at that time of having started a forest fire which did great damage to oil property. He is a well known character in the Bradford police courts, and Sheriff Jones is also well acquainted with his record.

Ferguson, it seems, cannot resist the call of the wild, but between the charge of shot in his system and what he has coming to him under the tramp act of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which frowns upon individuals of his stamp, he is probably pretty thoroughly tamed until next spring.

BIG BLACK BEAR WAS KILLED IN HIS DOORYARD

D. T. Green who lives on the Potato Creek road between Colegrove and Norwich Corners, visited the MINER Office Tuesday and gave details of the killing of a black bear that weighed nearly 400 pounds in his dooryard Thursday night.

The bear had made several visits to the bee hives in Mr. Green's yard, which were within 20 feet of the house, consequently he and others were rather on the watch for bruin. Guy Burdick, a neighbor was aware of the bear's visits to that vicinity and consequently had a gun with him when he returned from his work at Colegrove about 6 o'clock. He saw the bear eating honey at one of Mr. Green's hives and blazed away wounding bruin. Mr. Green ran out with a rifle and fired nine bullets into the animal which consequently became discouraged with life and soon gave up the struggle. The two men divided the big carcass and bear meat is now a popular dish in that locality.

LEASED THE LYCEUM.

The Hull brothers, John, Norman Robert and Louis, have leased the Smethport Lyceum from James Quirk and plan to furnish winter amusement for the people of Smethport, with basketball as the leading feature. It is understood that the forty or more basketball players of the town are contemplating the formation of a league with teams representing the army and navy branches among ex-service men, high school, Smethport glass factory and other teams. The town team to meet outside crack teams will be picked from the league. Under a proposed arrangement basketball players can use the Lyceum for practice practically without cost. The big theatre building will be at the disposal of people who wish to rent for entertainments, dances or meetings.

BISHOP OF LIBERIA

Rev. Walter H. Overs, Ph. D., rector of the Church of Ascension, announced to his parishioners at Sunday morning's service that he would accept the bishopric of Liberia, to which he was elected by the House of Bishops at the recent general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church of America.

Dr. Overs in announcing his decision made it clear that he was not influenced by the high honors involved, but that he felt obliged to respect this great call to a line of duty that could not be overlooked.

Immediately after the service Dr. Overs called the vestry together and proffered his resignation to become effective the last of the year. The vestrymen deferred action on the resignation until the regular meeting the first Monday in December.

Dr. Overs will sail for Liverpool on the first boat after Christmas. From England he will embark for Liberia on the British and African line.

Rt. Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, of St. Louis, presiding bishop of the church in America, is arranging for the consecration of Dr. Overs at the cathedral in Erie. This ceremony is expected to take place at an early date.

Dr. Overs' family will move to Jamestown, Mrs. Overs' former home during Dr. Overs' absence.

The new bishop's duties as head of the church in Liberia will necessitate his presence in this country several months of the year, in order to organize the financial activities necessary to his work.

Dr. Overs knows the Liberian field, having been a missionary in that country some years ago. It is probable that his duties will ultimately be extended over large territories of Africa outside of Liberia.

Throughout Dr. Overs' residence in Bradford he has been prominent in movements for civic betterment, as well as successful in developing and extending the activities of his own parish. In his local connections, he has shown the same powers of leadership that moved the bishops of his church to select him for high ecclesiastic honors.—Bradford Era.

JOHNSONBURG WAS DEFEATED

The Johnsonburg Hi football team met defeat at Kane Field Saturday afternoon in a thrilling game with Smethport Hi. The local team seemed to have things about its own way during the first and second periods and made three touchdowns. Then Johnsonburg seemed to come to life and threw a scare into the local warriors as they made two touchdowns. However the home team took a desperate brace and managed to come out with a victory. Score 18 to 12. The games at Kane Field have all been of more than ordinary interest and certainly deserved larger crowds.

BEAVER COLONY IS FLOURISHING NEAR SIZERVILLE

Few people are aware that within a short distance of Smethport a colony of beavers, America's most interesting and valuable fur-bearing animals, is flourishing in a manner to encourage the state game commission to start other colonies in this part of the state.

Game Protector L. K. Hogarth told the MINER that in June, 1917, a pair of beavers was placed in the woods on the banks of the east fork of Crowley run about one-half mile from Sizerville in the direction of Austin. These beavers immediately settled down to housekeeping and tireless industry after the manner of their kind. The original pair are now the head of a numerous family and their offspring are also carrying on the good work. The beavers have made three dams across the stream, the first and largest having a length of one hundred and fifty feet, built of the logs which the animals gnaw from trees which are first felled by the sharp teeth of the beavers. These logs are dragged to the water over a previously constructed runway, floated to the dam and fastened into position with withes and then plastered with mud making a substantial structure which keeps the water at the level desired by the animals for submerging the entrance to their homes, which are built with sticks and mud in the center of the stream.

Mr. Hogarth says that it is wonderful to see the work done by these busy little animals and mentioned seeing a tree fully seven inches in diameter which had been gnawed through at the butt but in falling had lodged in another tree making useless hours of labor for these energetic dam-builders. He also had a piece of birch log which he brought from the colony showing the way the beavers strip the bark for food. In the winter birch logs are sunk under water by the animals, and the bark used to help along the colony's food supply.

MURDER NEAR OLEAN

Jose Lizarrago was found dead on the Hinsdale road near Olean Sunday morning. He had been killed by knife wounds. Evidence pointed to August F. Sancky as the perpetrator of the deed and he has confessed, claiming that the killing was in self-defense. A quarrel over money is given as the cause. Both men lived in Buffalo.

DEATH OF MRS. E. E. HEATH.

The community was saddened at news of the death of Mrs. E. E. Heath, which occurred at her home on East Main street at 4:15 o'clock, Thursday morning. She had been in poor health for more than a year past, but it was only during a few days period before her death that it was realized that the end was inevitable as she suffered from a severe heart affliction that developed beyond human medical skill. During the past year Mrs. Heath had consulted with the most eminent specialists in this part of the country and at times her condition seemed to improve, but eventually she resigned herself to await the final call with a patient and christian-like fortitude.

She was one of God's masterpieces—a thoroughly good woman, beloved by all who enjoyed her friendship, one ready to sacrifice self for others, a worker for the good of humanity. Her death is a loss to the community and she was the last survivor of a family prominently identified with the development and welfare of this vicinity. Her husband has the sincere sympathy of all in his bereavment.

Evalyn Forsythe Heath, was a daughter of the late Daniel F. and Mary Comes Forsythe and was born in Smethport, June 21, 1863. She married Elmer E. Heath, June 5, 1902. She was a member of the Travelers Club and of the Order of the Eastern Star; when a young girl she accepted the position of organist of the Methodist church and filled that place for more than 20 years.

She was a member of St. Luke's church and the funeral was held at that edifice Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. W. E. Van Dyke officiating. Interment was in Rose Hill cemetery. A large number of sorrowing friends were in attendance at the last sad rites.

Among those from out of town in attendance at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alvord of Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Heath of Eldred, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Potter of Whitesville, N. Y., Dr. Archie Rose of Knox, Pa., and Floyd Heath of Mt. Jewett.

CHIEF SAYS BOY BANDITS ARE BUSY

Chief of Police Dickinson says that there are a number of young boys in Smethport who are traveling a dangerous path and unless they change their ways very soon will find themselves in trouble with the law. He is convinced that most of the various cases of petty robbery can be laid at the door of a gang of boy bandits. The recent taking and damaging of a costly automobile is also blamed upon boyish perpetrators. The chief does not believe the boys realize the seriousness of the trouble that will confront them if arrested. The MINER as a friend of all Smethport boys advises those who are indulging in petty thievery to quit the dangerous practice while the quitting is good. There is surely trouble ahead for those who do not.

BASKET BALL FRIDAY NIGHT.

There will be a game of basketball at the Lyceum between two local teams tomorrow night.

BLACK MYSTERY PROVES TO BE MOSTLY "BUNK" UPON INVESTIGATION

A Black Mystery is now reported to be at large in East Smethport. A dangerous character, garbed as a woman in black clothing, although the general supposition was that the miscreant was a man, terrorized a number of people in Kane a few weeks ago, seriously injuring one man and thoroughly frightening people of both sexes. Since that time various towns have reported similar characters, and it is evident that the fad appealed to some person with a perverted sense of humor or overwhelming hankering for notoriety in this vicinity.

It is an extremely dangerous amusement for any person thus masquerading as many citizens are not going to take chances on the bodily injuries sustained by the Kane man and if obliged to be in lonely localities after nightfall will take measures to protect themselves that may lead to serious injury of the mysterious person.

In fact a Smethport black mystery would stand more than an even chance of being solved by a coroner's jury.

While the wildest sort of stories have been get afloat concerning Smethport's mystery, Chief of Police Dickinson has informed the MINER that the only grounds these stories have for a foundation is that one citizen passed a man or woman clothed in black garments in a lonely locality last Friday night. The person in black made no hostile move whatever and the citizen only mentioned the occurrence in a joking way. Since that time the side walk comedians have sent all-sorts of yarns into circulation, but timid people are assured that there is absolutely nothing to be alarmed at.

ATLANTIC, BIG AIRSHIP LANDS AT KUSHEQUA

Carried Eight Persons and 3,600 Pounds of Express--Forced Down by Frozen Radiator Friday

Friday afternoon a large airplane passed over the southern borders of this borough flying west; it was proceeding slowly evidently in mechanical distress. Later in the afternoon word came that the plane was forced to land two miles from Mt. Jewett, near Kushequa and proved to be the large Hadley-Page airplane that left Mineola, L. I. early Friday morning on what was intended to be a nonstop flight to Chicago.

The big airship carried a crew of eight and a load of express matter weighing 3,600 pounds. Vice Admiral Mark Kerr was in command of the plane which landed in a large level field, the landing being made from a height of 8,000 feet without accident. The commander and crew were greatly pleased with the field as a landing place for government planes.

The airplane was forced to make the landing because of a frozen radiator after being in the air over eight hours. Four mechanics of the crew immediately commenced to make repairs and continued their labors until 2:30 o'clock, Sunday afternoon when the airship again hopped off.

Hundreds of Smethport people visited the big field which is a part of Elisha K. Kane's farm "Fountayne." From the commander and crew of the plane who are Englishmen, it was learned that the airship weighs 14 tons and is driven by four 12 cylinders motors, carries 500 gallons of gasoline and is 125 feet in width. The temperature 3000 feet in the air Friday was said to have been 20 degrees below zero.

Notwithstanding the fact that the load was lightened about one half by shipping of express matter by train at Mt. Jewett the big ship was again forced to land at Cleveland, Ohio, late Sunday afternoon. The landing was made on a race track and the airplane crashed through a fence after reaching the ground and was so badly damaged that two weeks will be necessary to complete the repairs.

The plane is called the Atlantic and Saturday's New York Times contained the following interesting information concerning it:

The Atlantic left Mitchel Field at 6:55 yesterday morning, laden with 1,500 pounds of express and carrying eight persons—Admiral Kerr, Major Herbert G. Brackley, principal pilot; Colonel Archie Miller, commander of Mitchel Field; four mechanics, and Douglass Malcolm of the American Railway Express, who traveled as the first American air express messenger. The express shipment consisted of women's furs and suits consigned to Chicago firms.

The getaway was in excellent style, though it came several hours later than planned, because the mechanics had a long struggle starting the four Rolls-Royce engines which were stiff from cold, as there was no hangar available large enough to shelter the craft.

Originally built to bomb Berlin, the Atlantic was refitted when The London Daily Mail offered a $50,000 prize for the first nonstop flight across the Atlantic Ocean, and was sent to Harbour Grace, N. F., to attempt that flight. It was ready to start on the same day the Vickers Vimy got away from St. John's N. F., last July, but engine trouble due to insufficient radiation capacity, developed and the start was postponed.

After the Vickers Vimy had made its successful pioneer flight, it was intended at first that the Handley-Page should attempt to repeat the journey as soon as new radiators were installed, devoting especial attention to experiments with its elaborate wireless equipment, including a radio-direction-finding outfit especially designed and installed by the Marconi Company.

When the R-34 started for America however, it was determined that the Atlantic, too, should fly to this country, in an effort to beat the dirigible from the time it crossed Newfoundland. The R-34 successfully completed its journey, but the Handley-Page came to grief at Parrsboro N. S. when a broken crankshaft forced a descent, in which the machine was partly wrecked.

Several months were required for repairs and rebuilding, in the course of which the wireless gear was removed after which the biplane was flown from Parrsboro to Long Island without stop a few weeks ago. It is the intention of its owners to keep it in this country for demonstration and exhibition purposes.

EDNA HICKS VICTIM OF DIPHTHERIA

The death of Edna Royaline Hicks, aged 3 years, 9 months and 29 days, daughter of Mrs. Ida Hicks, occurred at her home in Norwich, Saturday, Nov. 15. A few days before she was stricken with the dread disease, diphtheria, she returned from Olean where she underwent an operation for removal of adenoids and tonsils.

She was a daughter of the late Leroy Hicks, who while engaged in his work as a Pennsylvania railroad brakeman, was killed at East Smethport a little over a year ago.

This unfortunate family have the sincere sympathy of the entire community. The child was buried in Rose Hill cemetery, Sunday, beside the grave of her father.

ACCIDENT TO LITTLE GIRL.

Margaret, seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Keyes of Crosby, while running to jump upon the fender of an automobile driven by her uncle, fell and one of the rear wheels of the car which was in motion passed over her left leg causing a fracture between knee and hip. The accident happened Monday and the child was brought here and Dr. W. A. Ostrander attended to the injury. The little girl is recovering in a satisfactory manner.

FARMS ARE FEWER

The Pennsylvania department of agriculture furnishes statistical information showing the number of farms in Pennsylvania in 1910 compared with 1900, by counties.

The decline in the number of farms in Pennsylvania during the decade mentioned was approximately 5,000. If the decline is as large from 1910 to 1920, the next census will show about 214,000 farms in this state.

Crawford and Elk are the only counties in this locality that indicates a "back to the soil" movement, there being a slight increase in the number of farms occupied. McKean county shows a decrease of nearly 200.

Following are the figures as regard this and nearby counties:

SOLD LIBERTY BONDS

Pittsburg, Nov. 13—Striking coal and steel workers in the Pittsburgh district sold liberally of their Liberty bonds when they left mills and mines, and while no record has been kept that would trace the actual amount, bankers believe it aggregates hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The movement began soon after the steel strike was called, and was immediately noticed by the Pittsburg branch of the Federal Reserve bank when other banks and individuals presented large numbers of $50 and $100 Liberty bonds for exchange in to bonds of larger denomination.

The inception of the coal strike witnessed a similar movement, and both are still in full swing. Bankers in some smaller steel and coal towns where they are in close touch with individual deposits think it will continue until industrial unrest has passed.

"But workmen are not the only persons who market their Liberty bonds," said the head of a leading bond house while discussing the situation. "Some of our best customers in Liberty bonds are department and other stores, the customers of which have been liquidating their monthly accounts with such securities. We recently handled some $300,000 worth of these bonds for two or three stores."

Possibility That Waters of the Rhone Will Give Up Sarcophagi Long in Their Keeping.

An ancient story of the greed of kings has been resurrected by an erudite member of the Institute de France, Mr. Adrien Blanchet. The fact is there is some prospective work on hand for the utilization of the Rhone water power. Thus do ancient history and modern enterprise come to hobnob in the revue des etudes anciennes. The story tells how the king of France, Charles IX, coming one day to Arles, saw the Roman sarcophagi and wished them his. He did not covet long, for the next act in this kingly episode was the shipping of the most perfect of Rome's monuments en route for the capital city. This may have furnished a later king of France, namely, Louis XIV, with the precedent for the removal of the statue of Mesalina from Bordeaux; not that that monarch ever needed either precedent or encouragement for his actions. The sarcophagi started on their journey. It was in the year 1565. They had unfortunately not gone beyond the famous Pont-Saint-Esprit, before the boats sank beneath so unusual and weighty a load. Now, the congress for the development of water power, which sat in February this year, discussed among other schemes the transformation of the Pont-Saint-Esprit. The question is—and it will be admitted to be an absorbing one—during the excavations in the bed of the Rhone will those sarcophagi, lost nearly four centuies ago, be recovered?

MORE THAN WILLING TO GO

Senator's Suggestion, Meant as Sarcasm, Probably Was Wish Closest to Adventurer's Heart.

Maj. Cushman A. Rice of Minnesota, the original "Soldier of Fortune," dropped in to see Senator Knute Nelson the other day, on his way back from war. This last war made about the fortieth Rice has been in, so the veteran Minnesota senator thought Rice had had enough.

"Cushman," the senator said, "why don't you quit roaming around, go home and run for office? Your male relatives have been governors, senators, etc., and there is no reason why you should not serve your state."

Rice did not seem greatly impressed, so Nelson became somewhat warmer in his remarks.

"If you're bound to fight, why not get over into Russia, among the reds, and get some real action?" Nelson said, sarcastically.

Whereupon Rice leaped into the air. "Say, senator," he shouted, "if you'll fix it up so I can get over there, there isn't anything I wouldn't do for you."

That's the curse of the wandering foot, as the poets would remark.—Washington Star.

Didn't Know Ty.

Hiram Johnson, Republican senator from California, is one of the hottest baseball fans in the country, Jim Phelan, Democratic senator, knows nothing about the game. Here is proof of the latter statement.

The other day Walter Johnson, premier pitcher of the American league, and Ty Cobb, the greatest ball player in all history, perhaps, paid the senate a visit. After they had been introduced all around and been the subject of a great deal of hero worship, Phelan went over to Eddie Halsey of the senate staff, and asked:

"Who is this Ty Cobb, anyhow?"

Halsey almost passed away, but he managed to tell Phelan that "Cobb is a fellow who plays ball for a living."

Meantime Johnson was enjoying hugely the visit of the two ball players.

Next Morning.

My brother told me this. Marie is his lady friend. Mrs. Hemming, the mother of his chum. He said:

"You know Marie has one of these bright-red sweaters. I took her to a dance in the park one night and she wore it. Some of the fuzz from the sweater rubbed off on my coat sleeve. Next morning I was in a rush to catch my train and forgot to brush it off. Mrs. Hemming and Dad were on the train and we all sat together. While I was talking Mrs. Hemming leaned over and began to pick this lint off my sleeve. Well, that was an embarrassing moment.—Chicago Tribune.

The Engineer's Eyes.

The importance of the eyesight test is understood in a general way, but few people realize the tax laid on the eyesight of an engine driver during a long run. It takes years for a driver to learn thoroughly all the signals on a complicated system, and he must be able to pick out his own at a glance in the maze of a great junction. On the Northwestern railway alone more than 17,000 signals are lit every night, and a driver working from London to Crewe and back is controlled by nearly 600 signals.—London Chronicle.

Aunty Would Help.

Bill Bush of L. A. A. C. was showing an elderly lady the virtues of the car he sells. He made many turns and at the proper times extended his arm as a turning signal.

The old lady watched the proceeding for some time. Then she craned her neck and looked at the sky.

"Mister," she said sternly, tapping Bill on the shoulder, "you just tend to your driving. It don't look like rain no how, but if it should, I'll let you know."—Los Angeles Times.

Smethport, Pa., Thursday, November 20.

Is it too early to start plans for a celebration of July 4, 1920? Not to successfully carry out an event of the magnitude of a grand reunion of the service men of the county which has been suggested by Guy McCoy and met with enthusiastic response whenever mentioned. There is no question but that Smethport is the appropriate place to hold the first reunion of service men and a permanent organization could be formed to make these reunions of annual occurrence. The American Legion and other military organizations will no doubt cooperate strongly.

It would seem that a two days' celebration would be necessary to take care of a fitting program; the first day to be given over to organization affairs with a banquet to visiting delegates as a feature. On the second day a parade, field sports of all kinds, baseball games, boxing and wrestling contests, dances, etc., would make up a popular program. Motorcycle races could be added as no doubt the fair grounds could be secured for the events.

There are thousands of service men in the county who would favor such a reunion and there is not the slightest doubt but that it can be made the most successful and largely attended public event in the history of the county if it is taken in hand now by the community and the plans worked out to the glorious finale.

Bucktail Post, American Legion, of Smethport, is suggested by this paper as the proper organization to conduct plans for this proposed big meeting, and it certainly will have the cooperation of the whole community.

The election of a Republican representative from the 5th district of Oklahoma is another sign of the time in politics. This district has been Democratic since its creation, under the apportionment, following the last census. In Oklahoma the only avowed issue was the League of Nations. The Democratic nominee favored unconditional ratification of the treaty. The Republican nominee stood for reservations to the covenant. But undoubtedly behind the average voter's resentment at the President's demand that the treaty should not be Americanized lay a general discontent with the record and policies of the administration. Mr. Wilson has lost touch with the people. They are weary of his leadership in the domestic as well as in foreign field. And it is becoming more and more apparent that Democrats are almost as weary of it as Republicans are. A Republican plurality of 1200 in the fifth Oklahoma district can hardly be accounted for in any other way.—New York Tribune.

THE TURKISH MANDATE.

Henry Morgenthau, who so ably represented this country at Constantinople and whose account of his experience there is one of the thrilling books of the war has returned from a visit to Europe, where he was looking after the Jews in Poland.

He come out now enthusiastically for having the United States assume the mandate for Turkey, Armenia and Anatolia. He estimates that this job would cost this country more than $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 but estimates often fall below actual costs. From the money point of view this suggestion is lacking in allurement. But that is only a part of it.

Why should this country take charge of several far-away countries that do not know what peace is and, if they do, do not warm to it? Mr. Morgenthau does not say how many American soldiers the operation would call for, but it is obvious that a great many would be needed.

The scheme however beautiful from a millennial point of view, is a warning against foreign entanglements. If we are to police the world we surely have our work cut out for us. Considering the need of keeping order at home, it certainly looks as if we could find plenty to do without hunting for it.—Hartford Courant."

William Allen White points out that the administration, in its attempt to shelve General Leonard Wood, tried to bury him first in the South, then in the Middle West, and finally sent him to Illinois in the hope that his boom for [illegible] would be wrecked by collision [illegible] miscarried, and the several cemeteries picked out as the last peaceful political resting place of this eminent American have been galvanized into extraordinary activity. His platform is law and order, Americanism, ardent and uncompromising, is the issue he has made his own. His forceful and fearless utterances have stirred the country, as Roosevelt would now be stirring it were he alive; and one element of his strength, and not the least, is that he is known to stand for what the great dead leader would be standing and is, in a sense, his political executor and legatee.—Rochester Post Express.

"THOSE WHO ARE NOT FOR ME ARE AGAINST ME."

The Republican Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. today gave out the following statement from its Washington Headquarters:

"Once more President Wilson stands self-convicted. In his telegram to Governor Coolidge, he said: 'I congratulate you upon your election as victory for law and order. When that is the issue, all Americans stand together.'

"That was the issue all through the campaign, but Woodrow Wilson maintained his usual attitude of 'watchful waiting.' From his lips there came no word—From his pen there came no line—to encourage those loyal Americans who were in the death grapple with lawlessness. When that was the issue he was not standing with Governor Coolidge to any perceptible degree. It is appropriate to quote the words of one who said, 'Those who are not for me are against me.'

"Law and order was truly the issue, but when that was the issue, Woodrow Wilson was signing a message vetoing a bill for the enforcement of a law already upon the statute books by virtue of an act of Congress bearing his signature. He was expressly on the side of lawlessness and disorder in the enforcement of the prohibition law, and silent as the tomb all through the campaign to defeat Governor Coolidge; but after the victory had been won, he came forth with his effulgent congratulations to those who had borne the battle and won the victory without either his active or inferential assistance.

"A few months ago Woodrow Wilson announced that 'politics is adjourned' because, during the war, all Americans must stand together. Within a few weeks thereafter, he issued his notorious proclamation asking for the election of a Democratic Congress, notwithstanding the fact that Republicans had given more earnest support to war measures than had the Democrats. That demonstration of unparalleled partisanship justified the belief, in the absence of an expression from him that in the Massachusetts contest he favored the election of the Democratic candidate. His silence left room for no other inference, for his latest political utterances had been one of party appeal.

"The logical conclusions from his congratulatory telegram are manifest. First, if it be true, as he says, that law and order was the issue, and, when that is the issue, all Americans stand together, then the 193,000 Democrats who voted for Long are not good Americans. Second if Americans stand together when such a vital issue is presented, he himself was lacking in true Americanism when he failed to take his stand openly and actively in support of Coolidge.

"His illness can be no excuse, for a man able to write messages to labor conferences, to the striking miners, and to a Congress that had passed a bill that met his disapproval, was certainly well enough to indicate, by a dozen words, at least, his earnest desire that all Democrats demonstrate their Americanism by arraying themselves with the exponents of law and order. We repeat, President Wilson once more stands self-convicted."

Just why patent medicine concerns expect a reduction on the regular advertising rates of newspapers is a mystery we have been unable to solve after a long term of years in the business. Perhaps it is because some newspapers—many newspapers in fact—grant them the absurdly low rate requested and just how these papers square the proceedings with their business conscience is another mystery. The MINER has just turned down a magnificent offer of $30 for 416 inches of space from a concern with a nation-wide trade. The regular patent medicine rate of this paper is 25 cents per inch, which is one good reason why its columns are not all cluttered up with that class of advertising, that rate being a substantial ad-

JUST JOTTINGS

In these days while the government is slapping a tax onto everything visible and invisible the thought comes why not an excess oratorical tax. Administration boosters and several congressmen that might be named would prove an inexhaustable source of revenue, while every community has a number of chronic public knockers who would add more than a mite to the grand total. Sort of an X. S. B. S. tax, you know.

A down state editor offered a prize for the best definition of the "Height of Futility." The first answer received was: "Dancing with your own wife." The second: "Playing poker with your wife."

Our best guess on that "Height of Futility" contest is singing, "How Dry I Am."

Adrian High and Miss Susie Low were married recently in East Liverpool, Ohio, by the Rev. Emerson Jack. Every paragrapher in the country is endeavoring to locate game.

"All work and no play make Jack a dull boy," has to be amended when applied to professional musicians, ball players and actors. Their work is all play.

The shimmie, the angleworm twist the caveman squeeze and similar practices of the public dance floor are barred in Pittsburg, Kan., by order of the welfare board. The board has further ruled that parents who attend public dances must check children under sixteen in the ante room.

And what may we ask, are children who attend public dances expected to do with their parents? Leave 'em at home as per usual.—Lancaster Examiner.

—Game Protector Hogarth has received nine wild turkeys which will be released for breeding purposes in McKean County. These birds are strictly protected by the game laws, there being no open season in this county, but wildcats and foxes are notorious lawbreakers and have the habit of eating the hen turkeys when they are sitting on the nests. Great care will be taken to safeguard this consignment from all sorts of marauders and better results are hoped for than in previous experiences in raising wild turkeys in this county.

Mrs. John Loman of Philadelphia, Pa., will visit St. Luke's Church in the interests of Religious Education, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 22 and 23. Mrs. Loman will hold conference at 4:00 and 7:30 P. M. What might have been a terrible catastrophe was by good fortune averted Saturday afternoon. A wagon containing 180 quarts of glycerine was headed for this city, the horses attached to the load having run away from the factory near State Line. Had the vehicle with its deadly load reached Bradford and struck some object with force it is easy to guess just what would have happened. Robert Pringle received word that the team drawing the glycerine had started toward this city without a driver. He took a revolver from his desk and started in his car for State Line at a great rate of speed, intending to shoot the horses before they came near the city. He did not meet them, but was informed that they had turned from the road and ran across a field, coming to a stop against a boiler house. The explosive was intact.—Bradford Star-Record.

"One morning he found 20 hogs dead and several sick. He called in the Vet who after dissecting a rat caught on the premises, decided that the rodents had conveyed germs. Since then I am never without RAT-SNAP. It's the surest, quickest rat destroyer I know." Three sizes, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold and guaranteed by B. T. Garlick, J. A. Lindholm, Hogarth Pharmacy.

About a year ago a large consignment of Chinese pheasants were released on a tract of woodland belonging to Judge J. W. Bouton in the Marvin creek valley. The tract is poster against trespassers and it is known that a number of the birds were in good condition and frequenting that tract just before the hunting season opened. However these Chinese birds are wary and Game Protector Hogarth said that hunters allowed on this tract since the season opened had been unable to find one of them and the supposition is that they have scattered into different localities.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

In the Arctic Circle.

This policy carried Red Cross workers to far corners of the globe and here they are seen near the rim of everlasting ice and snow in North Russia. How Frogs Protect Eggs.

In the manner of disposing of their eggs many species of frog exhibit remarkable peculiarities. One of the most curious, a tree frog, native of Paraguay, makes its nest in a bush overhanging a pond. The lower ends of a number of leaves are drawn together and fixed in that position by a number of empty egg capsules. The eggs are also covered with a shield of empty capsules to protect them from the sun and air. When the eggs are hatched the plug at the bottom appears to fall out and the tadpoles tumble into the water.

And the Fly Escaped.

One of the queerest stories of automobile wrecks comes from Geneva. A man driving along the state road toward Waterloo had the windshield of his machine open. A dragonfly entered through the opening and hit him in the face. He tried to brush it off, moving the steering wheel unconsciously, ran into the ditch and through a fence and had a bad smash-up. And the worst of it is, the sufferer can't sue the fly for damages. —Buffalo Express.

Measuring Rainfall.

The quantity of rain which falls is measured by rain-gauges, or pluviometers, which are variously constructed. One of the best is that known as Symon's rain-gauge, consisting of a funnel-shaped receiving vessel to catch the rain, and a glass measure of much smaller diameter to measure it. To simplify calculation, the internal area of the measure is usually one tenth that of the mouth of the funnel.

Change the Gears!

Charles' uncle was a tall man, and one day when he had Charles out for a walk he forgot the length of a child's step, and poor Charles was almost running to keep up. They came to a rise in the grade of the walk and Charles stopped and said: "O, uncle, please change into low; I just can't make it on high."

Inflamed Eyes.

Nothing brings surer relief to inflamed eyes than a wash with boracic acid water. And one thing that its user must remember is to have the preparation free from any foreign particles, however minute, or they will cause irritation. The boracic acid should be thoroughly dissolved in water that has been boiled and cooled.

Tested 250,000 Miles Three-Point Cantilever Springs Greatest Improvement Since Pneumatic Tires

OVERLAND 4 has been put through the most thorough and severe test possible.

250,000 miles of mountain trails, desert sand, heat, cold, mud and dust, demonstrated the quality of every part of the car long before we began manufacturing.

This remarkable test showed conclusively that Three-Point Cantilever Springs, exclusive with Overland, are the greatest improvement in riding comfort since the introduction of pneumatic tires.

They protect the car from road shocks and prolong the life of every part.

They enable the wheels to hold better to the road. They give greater comfort under all road conditions.

They do away almost entirely with side sway and rebound which twist and rack the car.

Diagonal attachment of the Three-Point Springs at both ends of a 130-inch Springbase gives the steadiness and smooth riding of the heavy car of long wheelbase.

Equipment is complete from Auto-Lite Starting and Lighting System to Marshall Divan Spring Upholstery.

MT. JEWETT

The Henry Shunk Co. pulled their last mixer off from the Mt. Jewett end of the Mt. Jewett-Kanesholm highway, Tuesday and dismantled same, and have discontinued the cementing for the winter. A gang of men is busy putting shoulders on the finished road. The last laid cement will be covered until the first of December. Two and eighteen hundredths miles have been laid. The contractors are to be complimented on the construction of this road, as it is a fine piece of road making.

While out viewing the road one day this week, the editor came in contact with some of the farmers, who have been admiring the road, said, "Oh, how nice it is, we can go to church or town now in almost any kind of weather." It's worth a little cooperation, isn't it, Mr. Farmer?

DAZZLED THE DEER.

Fascinated by the glare of headlights on an automobile, a big six antlered buck deer stood in the center of the Wetmore road, three miles from the city, until the car was within 15 feet of it, and then leaped to safety in the woods.

W. W. Sasse, of this city, and John Brenneman, of Wilcox, were driving their car towards Kane when they saw the buck standing in the road. It kept looking toward the car and seemed glued to the spot, but as the automobile approached closer, it left the road and went into the woods. The men thought they had seen the last of it, but soon the animal was in the center of the road again and stood there until the automobile was within fifteen feet of it. Then its sense of caution overcame its fascination for the brilliant lights and the buck made for the woods in speed.

The men were close enough to see that the deer had six antlers, indicating it to be an old one.

The state recently liberated a number of deer in that section.—Kane Republican.

Chinese Wheelbarrows.

Probably more freight and more passengers are transported in China by the wheelbarrow than by any other land method. The wheelbarrow there used differs from that used by us, in the fact that the wheel is set in the center, and thus supports practically the entire load, while the handles are supported in part by a strap or rope over the shoulders of the man who operates it. As a result, the wheelbarrow coolie in China will transport nearly a half-ton on his vehicle.

Sling Gives Relief.

Great relief from pain in neuritis of the arm has been gained from the use of a sling described by Dr. R. T. Williamson in the British Medical Journal. The sling passes over the shoulder of the unaffected arm and under the elbow of the painful arm in such a way that it slightly raises it. This, by raising the shoulder and collar bone, takes off the pressure upon the nerve roots and prevents the weight of the arm from dragging on these nerves.

Whales That Walked.

Whales used to walk. That is the statement of Prof. d'Arcy Thompson, authority on fishes of the sea, in a lecture on that subject at the Royal Institution, London. He said the whale originally had four feet or fins, but that the two hind ones had simply dwindled away. In bygone ages ancestors of the present family of whales walked about much as seals do.

Thunder and Lightning.

Thunder is caused by electric discharge of lightning. This discharge, in forcing its way through the atmosphere, heats the air and vapor lying in its path to a high temperature, causing a violent expansion along the whole length of the flash. The result is a deep compression wave, or what is the same, a noise. Lightning is the flash of the electric explosion.

Origin of "Eleventh Hour."

The "eleventh hour" means figuratively the last minute, or, as we sometimes express it, "just in the nick of time." The expression now in general use, comes from the parable narrated in the gospel according to St. Matthew of the laborers hired for the harvest.

After Thirty-Four Years.

A Bath man has just received dividend checks from some shares of a silver mine which he bought 34 years ago and had forgotten all about. A friend who remembered the purchase told him of a notice in some paper that the mine was about to pay its first dividend and he began to cut coupons.—Grit.

"Life-Plant."

There is a creeping moss found in Jamaica called the "life-plant." It is believed to be indestructible by any means except immersion in boiling water or the application of a red-hot iron. It may be cut up and divided in any manner, and the smallest shreds will throw out roots, grow and bud.

Were Built to Endure.

The Egyptian engineer who built the famous water works at Aden constructed the masonry so well that the services of a plumber never have been required. These water works were built 3,000 years before the Christian era and are the most celebrated and antique in the world.

Study Your Own Errors.

We are shallow and selfish and lacking in dignity when we say one thing against another to gain our ends. Is it that we cannot think largely, comprehensively enough to realize that when we disown responsibility for our actions and sayings we are reflecting upon others to their hurt and discomfiture? It is almost as great a crime to be indifferent or unlawful of these matters as to be malevolent. There is something radically wrong with us ultimately if we cannot sponsor our own individual ideas and opinions without making some one a "but" for them.—Exchange.

Pathetic Query.

The nurse had been entertaining her patient by singing some of his favorite songs to him. There was one song in particular that the little boy liked much, and he never failed to ask his nurse to sing it to him every time she came into the room. She had already sung it a dozen times or more that morning, when on coming into the room after a few minutes' absence she heard a little voice from the other end of the room: "Say, nurse, do you think you have enough tone left to sing that song again?"

Making Improvement Sure.

We can all do good work, for all that is required is to follow directions laid down by other people who have done good work before us. It may be that we can improve on what other people have done, and after a while it may be that we can strike out a line for ourselves. Most of us will find that if we do the best we can, even in the most plodding way, we shall find ourselves improving and rising, step by step, in our chosen task.—New York Evening Telegraph.

International Expositions.

The first International exposition in this country was held in New York in 1853. The centennial exhibition took place in Philadelphia in 1876, the World's Columbian exposition in Chicago in 1893, the Pan-American exposition in Buffalo in 1901, Louisiana Purchase exposition in St. Louis in 1904 and the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco in 1915. These were the most important exhibitions having an international character.

Crocodile's Agility.

The moment that a young crocodile breaks its shell it is to all intents and purposes as active as it is at any time during its life. It will make straight for the water, even if it be out of sight and a good distance off, and it will pursue its prey with eagerness and agility during the first week of its free existence.

The Brainy Bee.

The following incident testifies to the remarkable sagacity and efficiency of bees. A hive was being "spied upon" by a wasp. When wasps ascertain a hive is worth attacking they often succeed in ousting the bees. Every time the wasp approached the small entrance hole a bee came out. An hour later the wasp was dead.

Didn't Seem Funny to Him.

Little Augusta had never seen a bald-headed man closely until one day a friend of the family came to dinner. When we were all seated at the table Augusta looked very intently at his bald head for several minutes, then whispered in mother's ear: "Mother, hasn't Mr. Reid funny, shiny, pink hair?"—Exchange.

American Independence.

Great Britain acknowledged the independence of the United States by a preliminary treaty of peace dated November 30, 1782, and by the final or definite treaty dated September 3, 1783. This treaty was ratified by the continental congress January 14, 1784.

Adhesive Tape.

People who have spent hours of agony from wearing new shoes over corns will find that strips of adhesive plaster applied over corns and across the heels, where blisters so often appear, will insure solid comfort.

Durable Male Beauty.

One reason why a man doesn't look into a mirror as often as a woman does is because he has more confidence in the durability of his beauty.—Galveston News.

Australia Has Spare Land.

South Australia, with an area of more than 240,000,000 acres, has only slightly more than 5,000,000 acres under cultivation.

Public Shines for Turk Women.

It is quite customary now for Turkish women to have their shoes shined at the public stands in the streets.

An Inch of Rain.

An inch of rain descending on an acre of land would fill more than 600 barrels of 45 gallons each.

Chile's Poor Land.

Of the 187,000,000 acres of land in Chile only about 26,000,000 can be cultivated.

Don't Knock!

Don't knock! The only knocker that amounted to anything was on a door.
